

Philanthropy Today

A summary of what matters most to the nonprofit world

October 09, 2008

Kresge Earmarks $8.8-Million for Arts in Detroit

The Kresge Foundation, in Troy, Mich., announced October 8 that it will give $8.8-million in grants over two years to artists and arts organizations in economically embattled Detroit, reports *The Detroit News*.

The giving program, the details of which will be announced October 16, are part of the $3.5-billion grant maker's multifaceted Detroit Program, which is designed to support the economic, environmental, social, and cultural life of the metropolitan area.